Budget Total Of $129,430 Before BOF

Once again students will have a chance to influence where ASSSC funds are spent next year. The budget, including allocations and estimated revenue, totaled $129,430 this year.

Thursday the Board of Finance of the ASSSC reaffirmed the policy of open meetings when discussing where and by whom the money will be spent.

The seven man board composed of Chairman Darryl Enos, Mr. Maples, Bill Rozell, John Krier, Dean Donald Baily, John Fitzgerald and Mr. Stanley Pretzer have been drawing up a tentative agenda.

All items which are to be discussed must be on this agenda prior to the scheduled meeting. Preliminary items may be submitted to the chairman by individuals or groups other than coordinators, advisers, Board of Finance members or Board of Directors members."

Enos said that this is an "attempt to involve more than just seven persons in the determination of how the student moneys will be spent next year. It's now up to the student to make use of this advantage by attending the meetings and entering into the discussions."

RECREATION NIGHT

The regular Recreation Night will be held tomorrow from 7 to 9 p.m. All facilities will be open to both students and faculty. Everyone is invited.

Special set design is being created by Larry Shumate, assistant professor of speech arts, who plans a representation of Elsinore Castle, incuding a complete remodeling of the proscenium arch on the stage.

In the set Shumate attempts to duplicate the playing area of the Elizabethan stage. Legrand Anderson, graduate student and musical director, is writing an original score for the show as a part of his master's degree. Costumes are being designed by Herman George.

Cast for the play includes Ric Murphy, Hamlet, Prince of Denmark; Georgeia Larson, Gertrude, Queen of Denmark and mother of Hamlet; Al Valenchich, Claudius, King of Denmark, Hamlet's uncle and step-father.

Returning to Elsinore Castle, Hamlet learns that Ophelia is dead and his forthcoming actions

Games, Race Plans Ready For Holidays

Plans for Hornet Holidays are well underway as the procedure for two activities, all college games and the bicycle race, have been announced by chairman Tim Jordan.

In the all college games competition, any group wishing to challenge another group to a tug-of-war during the festivities must contact Arnie Carston or put a note in the Hornet Holidays box in the Student Lounge by Wednesday, May 8.

Teams must have a minimum of 10 people and must issue a challenge to another team. No individual teams may enter. An entry consists of two teams, it was stressed.

Deadline for the bicycle race has been extended to April 30. Entry blanks may be picked up in the Student Lounge or in 272 Administration building.

Fraternity Plans Dance In Jungle

A jungle atmosphere with hanging bananas will carry out the theme of Alpha Pi Delta's ninth annual Safari dance. The event open to the public will be held at Del Norte Swimming Club, Friday, May 4, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

General chairman, Steve Watry, has announced that the Tiki's will provide music for the evening. Rich Chubon states that attire for the affair will be jungle garb.

Bids are $2.50 and may be obtained from pledges and actives of APD starting tomorrow. A tent set up on campus this week will be the center of bid sales.

BOJ Pulls Rug Under Four Groups

Justice wielded her sword and cut four organizations from campus life last week.

She also charged two groups with contempt of court and dropped charges against seven others. Continuences until April 30 were granted to another four because of lack of time to prosecute on April 15.

Removed from campus for three weeks was the Campus Humanist Club for failure to submit both officer and membership lists by the March 25 deadline.

Suspended

Organizations receiving two week suspensions for not submitting membership lists were CAHPER and Anthropology Club. These suspensions will be effective until May 9. Concurrent suspensions of one week for failure to submit officer lists also were assessed against these groups.

Drama Club pleaded guilty to both counts as charged but pleaded mitigating circumstances. This plea was taken into consideration by the justices and the prosecutor told the court that the lists had come in soon after the deadline.

The club was suspended for two days, April 19 and 20, and placed on probation for six months.

California Park and Recreation Society and Delta Phi Upsilon wre charged with contempt of court because of failure to answer summons to appear as stated. The prosecutor will serve notice.

Charges against Block S, California Inter-collegiate Press Association, Mu Phi Epsilon, Panhellenic Association, Society for the Advancement of Management, Student California Teachers Association and the Westminister Club were dropped because of administrative error.

Cases Continued

Alpha Psi Omega, Campus Peace Union, Kappa Gamma and Lambda Alpha Epsilon were granted continuences until April 30 when the charges will be considered.

Richard Philo, who has applied for the office of Public Defender but has not been appointed, acted as a private citizen with power of attorney in defending Anthropology Club and CAHPER.

Defenders Listed

Hugh Farris defended the Campus Humanist Society. Rick Murphy, president, appeared for Alpha Psi, Omega, Bob Albers represented Block S, and Richard Kaogh, president, acted for the Drama Club.

Hearing on the cases were Chief Justice Bud Wasgatt and Associate Justices Mike Evans and Marie Scheier. Mariene Polletti, Associate Justice, was absent and the other position on the five-man board is vacant.

Cast Rehearses Russian Play In Outdoor Theatre

The Dairy of a Scoundrel by Alexander Ostrosky will be presented by the Drama Department May 9, 10 and 11 at 8:30 p.m. in the Outdoor Theatre.

The three act play is a Russian comedy concerning a young man who climbs the ladder of success stepping on whomever he pleases.

Philip McCullough is the director, set designer and costume designer of the production.

The cast will include Richard Gregory, Nancy David, Dale Ware, Barbara Coulson, Ed Robinson and Shara Lynn Kelsey.

The presentation, which features simple sets and costumes of 1860 Russia, is free to the public.

Ugly Men, Pretty Gals Take Heed

Prizes galore are in order for the winning photographer and model in the Miss Flashbulb contest to be held during the Hornet Holiday festivities.

Entries for the contest, sponsored by the California Intercollegiate Press Association, may be submitted to the State Hornet office. The deadline is May 1.

The entry must consist of two 5 by 7 glossy prints and one 2 by a glossy print. Any photographer on campus is eligible to enter the contest.

Running concurrently with Miss Flashbulb will be the Ugly Man contest. All organizations are eligible to submit an entry in the contest. The deadline is also May 1.

Ugly Man entries must be two 5 by 7 glossy prints and one 2 by 3 glossy print.

The entries for both contests will be displayed during the week of Hornet Holidays. The winner will be decided by votes cast by the student body. A vote will consist of one penny. The proceeds will go to the student loan fund.

McLean, Kimball File for BOD Posts

Kathie McLean

Kathie McLean filed a petition Friday for the office of Women's Representative.

Miss McLean is a student representative to the Registration Procedures Committee, vice president of Beta Phi Beta, chairman of Counselors for College Kickoff, and was chairman of the fund raising project for Proposition 1A. She recently was tapped for Silver Key women's honor society.

"There are certain areas of vital interest to the students at Sacramento State College," said Miss McLean. "I believe the little explored field of community relations is a potential that must be investigated and utilized to its full extent."

Utilize Support

Pointing to the support given SSC by the Chamber of Commerce in the recent bleacher controversy, she stated, "Since the community is willing, let us utilize their support."

"It is the duty of student government to serve the students of SSC and the duty of the student representative to adequately represent the viewpoint of his constituents," she continued.

"In order to serve well, the Women,s Representative must create an active interest in the activities of student government. To do this, I propose that the Women's Representative present to her constituents, in written form, a bi-monthly interpretation of the activities of their government and representative."

Supports ICC

Stating her views on the proposed Inter-Club Council, Miss McLean said, "As a student now and as Women's Representative later, I strongly support the goals for which the Inter-Club Council was founded. I believe that lack of verbal communication is a critical problem to each organization on this compus and that the ICC is essential to the solution of this problem."

With strong approval, she spoke of the proposed student union as the 'heart of the college' "a place for all to gather whether in discussion, activity, or play."

Finally, Miss McLean commented on the bleacher controversy. "I strongly support the acquisition of seating facilities for the coming football season on a Sacramento State homefield, she said. "This will be an essential factor in establishing interest and support from the community. This will provide us with the enjoyment of football and will continue to enliven the image of SSC as a competitor with other college in California," she concluded.

Richard Kimball

Richard Kimball has filed his petition as a candidate for Social Science Repreesntative to the Board of Directors.

Kimball, a junior transfer from American River Junior College, served on the Student Council, Inter-Club Council, and as president of the honor society there. was associate editor of the ARJC newspaper last year.

A delegate to the Model United Nations here, Kimball also was a Model UN delegate while attending ARJC.

Impliment Program

"I believe," states Kimball, "that it is the duty of the ASSSC to implement the instructional program of the college in every way, from exercise of the mind through debate to exercise of the body through athletics."

"Because of my experience," he adds, "I am primarily concerned with the development of the ASSSC in the areas of campus organizations, publications and world affairs."

"The BOD should give its complete support to the Inter-Club Council which is now being organized. Through this council our campus organizations will be able to attain a new, higher degree of co-operation which will serve to strengthen them all."

Maintain Publications

"ASSSC publications, being virtually the only medium of intra-campus communication, should be maintained at the highest possible degree of quality. Specifically, I advocate a vastly improved means of distributing the 'Herky Handbook;' moreover, I believe that the inclusion in The State Hornet of a standing feature of particular interest to social science students would be beneficial to the campus," he said.

"As Social Science Representative, I would work for the maintenance and continuence of ASSSC's commendable world affairs program."

Supports Bleacher Program

In reference to cntroversies now facing the BOD, Kimball stated, "Since no ASSSC funds are to be used to purchase football bleachers and inasmuch as state funds appropriated for this purpose would be lost to SSC if we choose not to accept the bleachers, I do not see any reasonable alternative to the program the ASSSC is now pursuing in this area."

"I would work for a program which would alleviate the disorderly situation in the Library without working a hardship upon the more scholarly inclined high school students who desire to use our Library facilities," he added.

SSC Model UN Delegation Leaves for San Jose Meet

Sacramento State College's delegation to the Model United Nations, representing Rumania, will leave tomorrow for the western state's conference in San Jose.

With them will go resolutions calling for condemnation of the common market, expulsion of South Africa from the UN, and immediate seating of the government of the People's Republic of China.

The group, consisting of Mary Alice Blake, Al Cameron, Al Darrah, Michael Hendershot, Vivian Iehimura, Richard Kimball, Jack Kimbro, Eliezer Risco, Kathy McKim, Jean Mihalakos, George Miller, John Poswall, David Schiele, Kirsten Steinmo and Phillip Taylor, has been preparing for the conference since the latter part of last semester.

Test Ability

On March 2, they had an opportunity to test their ability at a regional conference held at ARJC. At that conference, the group, while not passing many of their own proposals did seat the People's Republic in two committees and had four speakers address the General Assembly.

At the main conference, approximately 100 schools from Montana, California, Washington, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Oregon, and Hawaii will be represented. The delegates from these schools will converge on San Jose for the first plenary session tomorrow night.

Meetings

Thursday will be dedicated to committee meetings. Friday will see the delegates continue their committee meetings until that evening at which time the second plenary session will be held. All day Saturday is schedued for the General Assembly meeting.

Editor: State Hornet,

In the Board of Directors meeting of April 16, it was announced that principals of local high schools had been sent letters, directing attention to disturbances caused by high school students, in the SSC library.

Further, certain other solutions to this problem are now being considered and may be implemented by the time this letter is published. I wish to address my comments to these proposed remedies.

In order to gain entrance to the library, a high school student may be forced to:..

(1) secure, from one of his teachers, a letter or note as testament to the need of the student to utilize library facilities for some assignment.

(2) receive, from the high school librarian, a note or letter certifying that the material or facilities the student needs to utilize may be found nowhere in the school's own library and that access to Sacramento State's library is necessary.

(3) obtain, a letter or note as testament to the student's ability to conduct himself in a civil manner.

In effect, therefore, these proposals would demand that the student wade through a delightful pile of red tape, meanwhile jeopardizing the reputation of his teachers and principal, in order to achieve the honor of gazing upon the Masters Theses of our alumni.

One must not take this privilege too lightly, but the student is to be cautioned that exotic words may be located in the dictionaries of the City or State libraries. (SSC's is not the only one possessing a dictionary, you know.) And woe-be-tide the young barbarian who is apprehended sneaking a peek in the Encyclopedia Brittanica or West's Annotated Codes. (There is a law library downtown.)

No one can deny that the noise problem must be brought under control. No one can deny that some high school students are partially to blame. No one can deny that librarians are not policemen. No one can deny, either, that this action, under consideration, is not only unfair, but that it is ridiculous to the point of iniocy.

If we would penalize the high school student, let us be sure we do not forget the "high school student" who broadcasts the rigors of life in English 1A, Life Science 1, or German 103. I would wager that, if these students were subdued, there would be much less inclination by others to discuss the social strata of Encina, McClatchy or Hiram Johnson.

One possible solution would be to call upon the students of Sacramento State to maintain a respectful and scholarly demeanor within the library. Thereafter, entrust policing of the library to them.

A more realistic solution would be to employ part-time student assistants (if there exists students who would stoop to part-time employment) and charge them with the supervision of the transition from "Hoedown in Humanities" to "Silence in Social Science."

It would be insisted, however, that the finances of the library could not stand the strain. This may be true, but what is the alternative? Single out the high school group as scapegoat and remove it from the library? Allow present conditions to prevail? Turn the librarians into reasonable facsimilies of "Gangbusters"?

Can the irrevocable damage, done to innocent youngsters, to college-community relations, and to our own self respect, be justified in the name of finances, or in the name of any rationalization, born of selfish, irresponsible, inconsiderate, one-sided attitudes?

Common sense demands that every student, professor, administrator, and alumnus oppose the very consideration of these odious proposals.

Golfers "Strike Out" In FWC Match Play Bid

"Even the home run champions strike out once in awhile", so lamented Hornet golf coach Aubrey Bates after his team's crushing defeat by the San Francisco State Gators.

The match, held last Thursday at the Northridge Country Club, was an all-important one for the two schools. Going into the meet they were tied for the match-play championship with one loss each. In scoring their victory, by a lopsided 18½ to 2½ score, the Gators have all but clinched the Far Western Conference title.

San Francisco has only one match remaining and that one is with an inferior Alameda State squad. Meanwhile, back at the SSC campus, the Hornets have yet to meet the University of Nevada and the UC a Davis. Although Davis and Reno present little competition for the usually powerful Hornet five, their title chances are very slim unless Alameda pulls off an unlikely upset over the Gators.

All is not lost for coach Bates' and his linksters however, as they still have a chance for revenge in the FWC Medal Tournament scheduled for May 9th and 10th in Chico. San Francisco has won the medal tourney the past two years while the Hornets are defending champions in the match play department.

In last Thursday's meet SF took every match from the locals. Hornet ace Bob Smith was barely edged by Mike Moriarty as Smith carded a 73 and Moriarty a par 72. Number two man Jerry Yuke suffered his worst outing as he limped in with an 81 against Bob Martin's 75. Best ball play also went to the Gators in the first series by a 2½ to ½ margin.

Ken Moore also fell far short of his usual performance as he fired an 82, way over Glenn Moran's par 72. Hornet Bob Irving gave it the old college try but Dave Freeman proved just a little stronger when he came in with a 73 against Irving's 74. The Gators then swept the second best ball play, 3-0.

The last match saw SSC's Dennis Harper cross the greens with a fairly good 74 but again San Francisco squeezed through as Vic Kulik fired a 73.

So it went for Sacramento State during Coach Bates' "longest day."

Today the Hornets are in Davis crossing clubs with the Aggies in a somewhat anti-climactic match. Watch Friday's Hornet for the results of that action.

Hornet Divers First In Relays

SSC's diving team of Joe Damiata, Bill Sears and Russ Marion won first place at the Picnic Relays Saturday in Davis, but the next best SSC finish was third and the Hornets finished fifth in the meet.

The powerful UOP Tigers, who captured seven out of nine events, were the winners with 152 points. They were followed by San Francisco State with 124, Cal Aggies, 95, Chico State, 69, and Sacramento, with 66.

Damiata, Marion and Sears totaled 255.9 points for their nine dives. Each diver made one dive from the three-meter board, the three-meter platform and the one-meter board.

I-CC Meets

Final step in the creation of Inter-Club Council is scheduled for next Monday. At that time, the proposed constitution will be presented for ratification.

All organizations have been extended an invitation to attend the meeting and vote on the proposed constitution.

The ICC is designed to strengthen campus student organizations by promoting a better relationship among them.

Baker Says All 1963 Home Games Will Be On Campus

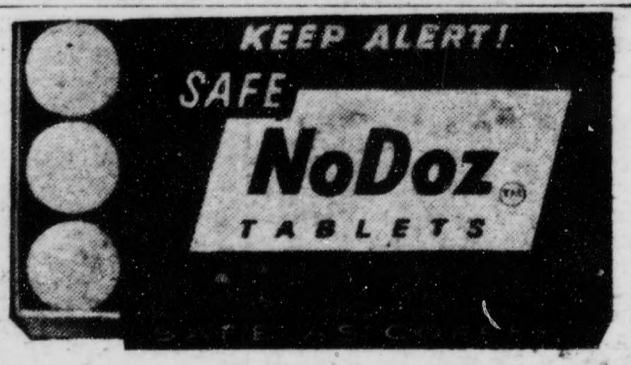

John Baker, SSC athletic director, Saturday announced that, come what may, the Hornets will play their four 1963 home football games on the SSC campus.

Baker said that unless some bleachers were obtained for the SSC football field, seating would be "woefully inadequate," since present bleachers capacity is only a few hundred. Baker also mentioned temporary restroom facilities and a scoreboard as required for the playing of the games, along with a press box and public address system. .....

"We hope funds for these items can be provided from local sources. If not, the college is prepared to get by with temporary makeshift arrangements," Baker said. "We feel the psychological boost given the students, the athletes and the fans in the community by playing our games on our home ground makes the inconvenience of a temporary arrangement bearable for the 1963 season. However, we do hope to have adequate seating for spectators."

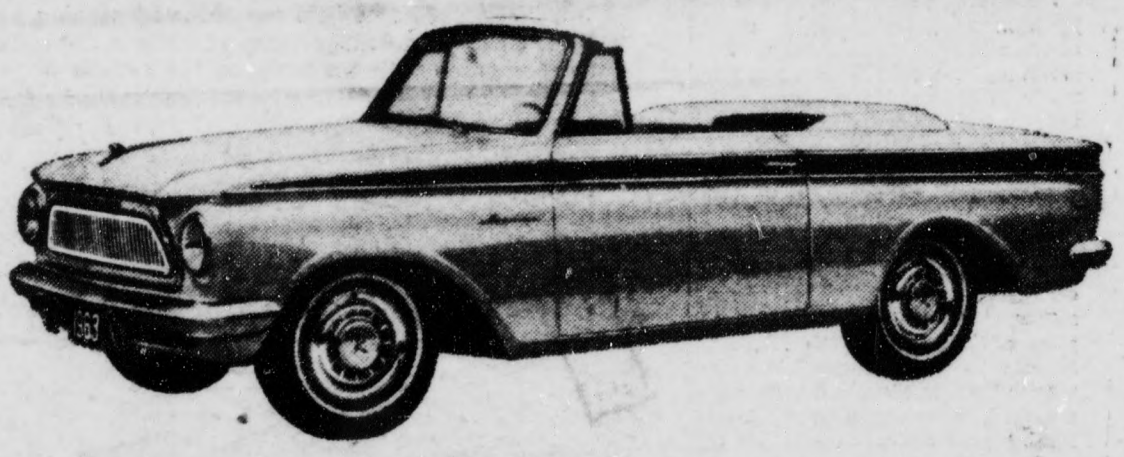

The 1963 schedule call for home games—to be played in the afternoon—September 28th with Santa Clara, October 12th, University of California at Santa Barbara, October 19th with San Francisco State and November 2nd against Nevada.

SSC can no longer use Hughes Stadium, due to the increased need of the city high schools for football facilities.
